is hiring a

Business Consultant

axialyze is an international business consulting firm with its main focus on supply chain management, active as well in the areas of IT strategy, business performance management and business transformation. Our clients are mostly mid-sized companies operating in a wide range of industries, mainly located in Europe. Our offices are located in Krefeld (Germany) and Liège area (Belgium).

axialyze enables companies to realize tangible performance improvements for long lasting success, mindful of each organization's long-term business strategy and stakeholders' needs. Therefore, we accompany our clients from the identification of improvement opportunities to the implementation of the jointly elaborated improvement strategies.

Your profile

- You hold a Master's degree in Management, Business Engineering or another related field
- Experience in supply chain management and/or consulting is preferred
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills in English and German or French are required, additional languages are a plus
- You have superior analytical skills and an entrepreneurial spirit
- You are able to manage multiple commitments and tasks simultaneously
- You are highly motivated, a reliable team player and willing to travel internationally

What we offer

We are a growing and dynamic company with a very flat hierarchy. You will be working hands-on as of the first day and will have direct client facing.

Day to day duties will consist of, but will not be limited to:

- Understanding the client's strategic and tactical objectives
- Identifying business problems or improvement opportunities, mainly through analysis of data and processes
- Translating identified opportunities into an improvement strategy and roadmap for execution
- Designing and delivering client deliverables based on client needs and expectations
- Accompanying clients in the implementation of defined strategies

We look forward to receiving your application, including a CV and covering letter, via email to:
